ATTEMPTED BRIBERY OF VOTERS

Judge of Probate Allen of Sherman, Conn., Bound Over Under $2,000.

Sherman, Conn., Nov. 22.—After finding probable cause against Judge of Probate Warren C. Allen of this place for attempted bribery of voters and hindering him under $2,000 for trial in the superior court, Justice of the Peace Rev. E. Henry Byrnes this afternoon took up the case of Selectman George E. Barnes, a former representative, charged with bribery and attempted bribery of voters on or about Nov. 1, 1908.

Four witnesses examined. The minor, Charles Hetrick, it was alleged, was induced by Barnes to swear that he was of age, and, taking oath to that effect, was made a voter. Hetrick was arrested and held at a justice hearing for the superior court, to be tried for perjury. The testimony in that case led to the arrest of Barnes.

Justice of the Peace charged with Illegal Voting. While the Barnes case was being tried this afternoon, David Conklin, a justice of the peace, was served with warrants and placed under arrest, charged with illegal voting at the democratic caucus in October. The warrant against Conklin is signed by Grand Juror Frank Hungerford, who is on Barnes' bond, but the name of the complainant is not made known. The complaint sets forth that Conklin at the time of the caucus in October was registered as a republican and alleges that he voted in the democratic caucus. Conklin was taken before Justice of the Peace James Stuart, who continued the case until Dec. 3 under $1,000, which were furnished.

Case Against Selectman Barnes. Previous to today's trial, probable cause was found against Barnes for aiding in making a minor an elector.

PRESIDENT TAFT RETURNS FROM ISTHMUS.
Cruiser Tennessee Reaches Norfolk. After a Trip Filled With Incidents—Near Collision With German Training Ship.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 22.—President Taft arrived at Hampton Roads on the cruiser Tennessee at 10:45 a. m. today.

Collision Narrowly Averted.
The trip from Panama was filled with incident. On Friday night last about 140 miles south of Guantanamo, Cuba, the Tennessee narrowly averted a collision with a German training ship, supposed to be the Freya. A heavy squall had shut in around the presidential squadron, the weather being so thick that the steersman could hardly see a ship's length ahead. The storm was brief, and as it cleared the German ship was cutting directly across the Tennessee's steel bows, not a quarter of a mile away. The helm of the Tennessee was put hard over. The Freya continued on her course. There was no exchange of signals.

First American President on Island of Cuba.
On Saturday the president spent three hours at Guantanamo looking over the American naval base and the rifle ranges there. It was the first time an American president had set foot on the island of Cuba. The territory visited by Mr. Taft, however, is under American sovereignty.

Cruiser in a Cyclone.
Monday morning brought the only disagreeable weather of the voyage. Off the north Florida coast the presidential cruiser ran into the tail end of a cyclonic disturbance. The sea was very rough and for hours the big cruisers were shipping water over their forecastles. Speed was reduced almost to a standstill. The sea was very rough and for hours the big cruisers were shipping water over their forecastles. Speed was reduced almost to a standstill. The sea was very rough and for hours the big cruisers were shipping water over their forecastles. Speed was reduced almost to a standstill.

Worked on His Message on Trip Up.
The president spent three of the five days of the homeward voyage at work on his message to congress, and dictated the first draft of the major portion of it.

Anxious to Reach Washington.
Mr. Taft is anxious to get back to Washington, and is ready to plunge into the winter work. His stopover at Richmond is to make a speech before the Virginia Educational Conference at noon tomorrow. During tomorrow forenoon the president will meet with some of the Virginia battle grounds outside of Richmond.

Epidemic of Pink Eye.
Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—An epidemic of "pink eye" at the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, has necessitated the closing of the institution until Jan. 4. An order disbanded the cadet corps and sending the students to their homes. The epidemic is named has been issued by Superintendent Nichols, to take effect immediately.

B. F. Dillon, General Superintendent of the southern division of the Western Union Telegraph company, with offices in Atlanta, Ga., died Monday night of apoplexy.

One True Medicinal Whiskey

Beware of imitations and substitutes unscrupulous dealers tell you are "just as good as" Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

These cheap concoctions are foisted on the people with the intent to deceive by dealers mindful of their profits only and caring nothing for the health of their patrons. Some go so far as to try to make you believe it is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Substitutes Are Dangerous

When a remedy has been before the public for more than half a century, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessings of health into as many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Is Beneficial
It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. Its palatability and its freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach. It has been used with remarkable results in the treatment of consumption, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles and all wasted and diseased conditions.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only. The "Old Chemist's Head" is on the label and over the cork is an engraved seal. Be certain this seal is unbroken. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers everywhere or direct, $1.00 a large bottle.

BURIAL OF TOLSTOI. FRIEND OF THE SERFS
Body Borne on Shoulders of His Sons—Throng of High and Low Degree Pay Last Tributes.
Tula, Russia, Nov. 22.—Throughout the night and during the early part of today special trains arrived at Zaseika, the railway station near Yasnaya Polyana estate, bearing delegations to the funeral of Count Leo Tolstoi. Students from Moscow occupied twenty-three coaches.

Following Tolstoi's written request his grave had been on the spot "where in childhood he buried a green rock." This reference was to an episode in the early life of Tolstoi and his brothers, who with childish rites consigned to the earth a hobby horse in the belief that when it was interred a reign of happiness would be inaugurated.

The novelist referred to the disposition of his body and in directions explicitly that the ceremony should be the simplest and most of the orthodox church.

Funeral Train Arrives.
The special train bringing the body from Yasnaya Polyana arrived at the Zaseika station at 10 o'clock this morning. The funeral party was met by throngs of mourning peasants who since daylight had been arriving from the surrounding countryside.

According to the Russian custom, Tolstoi's sons formed the party of bearers and bore the casket on their shoulders over the two miles separating the station from the novelist's home at Yasnaya Polyana.

The way was lined with mourners. Peasants marched at the head of the procession carrying white banners.

Following the peasants were two student choirs chanting memorial hymns and four carriages filled with mourners. Then came the sons, trudging slowly under the weight of the casket. The countess and others of the family followed the bier afoot.

In His Favorite Room.
Arrived at the house the cortege halted and the casket was borne within upon a catafalque erected in the author's favorite room. This had been emptied of its furniture and was barren except for the cherished bookcase, a portrait of Tolstoi's brother and a bust of Buddha.

Here in the old home from which Tolstoi fled twelve days ago to seek the solitude that was to be denied him, the body lay in state. The public was freely admitted to the room and for several hours an unbroken line of peasant folk and others of less humble circumstances passed reverently before the bier.

Just before sunset the casket was carried to the grave, about which the family and close friends of the dead man had gathered. The hymn "Everlasting Memory" but there was no other ceremony.

In silence the casket was lowered into the ground, the filling proceeded at once and within a half-hour from the time the funeral party arrived at the spot a mound of broken earth marked the chosen resting place for the body of the Russian reformer.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR SIX TORPEDO BOATS.
Some of Them Must Develop a Speed of Thirty Knots.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Contracts for six torpedo boats were awarded a navy department today. Two of them went to the Bath Iron works, Bath, Me.; one to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, Newport News, Va.; one to the New York Shipbuilding company, Camden, N. J.; one to the Fore River Shipbuilding company, Quincy, Mass.; and one to the Cramp Shipbuilding company, Philadelphia.

Those to be built at the Bath Iron works will be required to develop a speed of thirty knots a hour. The two boats will cost $654,500 each. Their trial tests must be made over a forty fathom course, as also the one to be built by the Fore River company. The other three boats are to make their trial tests on the Delaware Breakwater course. The Fore River boats will be fitted with twin screw engines.

Naval Academy Team Fleeting from Typhoid Fever.
Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22.—As a precaution against the possibility of typhoid fever developing among the members of the naval academy football team, the men, by permission of the authorities, were transferred last night from Bancroft hall to the officers' mess building. They will remain there until their departure for the game with West Point in Philadelphia on Saturday. It was announced that a pool of $3,000 had been raised by the midshipmen to vaccinate at even money with the West Point cadets.

Tolstoi.
As a moral and social teacher and reformer, Tolstoi lost his influence many years ago. He had the prophetic of a new dispensation, the head of a cult that was to possess the world, he had his day and saw it pass, owing chiefly to the inconsistency and unreasonableness of some of his later pronouncements, which even the most enthusiastic of his disciples could not accept, much less defend. His theories of art and marriage, his advocacy of what amounted in the final analysis to deliberate race suicide, all this created a chasm between him and a progressive civilization that could not be bridged, the chasm between the contemplative east and the dynamic west. He became the champion of Russia in bondage, the only voice in the empire that would not, could not, be stifled. His real mission was a national, not an international one, but even there he was at variance with the practical aspirations of his countrymen, leaders of his people. His head was in the clouds of mysticism, his foot was set in the furrow of the moujik. He preached a return to the primitive and economic retrogression to a state of primitive, static simplicity, not progress in the footsteps of the advancing west. Formidable in his op-
